

that played it (e.g. Insightful Eyes) or the target (e.g. Whelp Body). Gifts and Rites attach under the left of their target so the picture is showing. Other cards attach above the creature so that the name is showing.

4.5.1 ACTIONS

Action cards are special effects that a Character physically undertakes. Only Characters may use Action cards.

- Playable by: Characters
- Duration: Instant
- Can be discarded voluntarily from play: N/A

4.5.2 EVENTS

Events are circumstances that occur in the world at large and affect the game to some degree.

- Playing an Event is not an action.
- Events affect both sides of the Gauntlet.
- Duration: Variable
- Can be discarded voluntarily from play: never

4.5.2A PACK TOTEMS

Pack Totems are a type of Event that, like resources, require a keyword on a Character to bring into play (but do not require an action to do so). Once a pack has played a Totem then every member of the pack may gain the benefit of that Totem.

- A pack may only have one Pack Totem in play at a time, but may discard it at will.

4.5.2B PERSONAL TOTEMS

A Personal Totem works like a Pack Totem, except that it is played on a single Character and only benefits that Character. This Character must meet a Personal Totem's requirement before it may be brought into play.

- A Character with a Personal Totem may not benefit from Pack Totems, but they can discard their Personal Totem at any time.

4.5.2.C LUNAR PHASES

Lunar Phases are another special type of event. Lunar phases may only be played at the beginning of the turn, during the redraw phase (after cards have been redrawn).

4.5.3 GIFTS

As inherent spiritual abilities, Gifts create powerful mystical effects.

- Playable by: any creature
- Timing: any
- Can be discarded voluntarily from play: never
- As well as keyword requirements, Gifts have a Gnosis requirement which the user must meet.
- Gifts require conscious effort to use though, so cannot be played while frenzied.
- A creature cannot be targeted by a Gift while under the effects of another copy of that Gift.

Triggered Gifts

A VERY RARE subset of permanent Gifts are triggered Gifts, which attach the user until the trigger occurs. When their ability triggers, they are targeting the creature affected by the gift. Therefore a Gift of the Porcupine will not be usable by someone wearing a Heart of Midnight, nor will it transfer as damage to someone wearing one, though it will trigger (and have no effect).

4.5.4 QUESTS

Quests are the special circumstances that garner additional victory points (or other benefits) for any Character or Ally that meets their criteria.

- Playable by: Characters or Allies
- Duration: variable
- Can be voluntarily discarded from play: open play
- A Quest may be played at any time, subject to the Quest itself; some Quests are

Sidebar: X Gifts

The rules and many cards refer to <something> Gifts (e.g. "Bane Gifts"). This means any Gift requiring the <something> (e.g. Airt Mastery is a Bane Gift, because it has "Bane" as a requirement; so is Eyes of Hate even though it also has an Eater-of-Souls requirement).

Sometimes effects will refer to broader groups of cards such as Tribe, Auspice, or Breed. See the Keyword section to see all the groups under each of those collective terms.

Exception: "Wyrm Gift" or "Gaia Gift" refers to the affiliation of the creature that played it.

Similar terminology works for other non-creature card types. For creatures, X refers to the keywords of the creature itself.

played after their requirements are fulfilled, while others must be played in advance.

- A creature may only undertake one Quest at a time

4.5.4A PAST LIVES

Past Lives are cards that represent a connection to a powerful ancestor. They are a subset of quests with the following additional rules:

- Past Lives have a requirement of a Character of the Tribe listed.
- Reduce your sept hand size by one for each Past Life in your pack.
- If a Character channelling a Past Life is killed, put the Past Life in its owner's Victory Pile where it is worth -3VP.
- All Past Lives are unique.

4.5.5 RITES

Special rituals used by the profoundly spiritual.

- Playable by: Characters and only if they are Garou, Fera or Cultists.
- Timing: any.
- Special: Rites cannot be used during combat.
- Can be voluntarily discarded from play: never
- Instead of a Gnosis requirement, Rites have a Renown requirement which the user must meet.

4.7 SEPT CARDS: JUNTAS - MOOTS AND BOARD MEETINGS

Moots are grave social gatherings of Garou and Fera where policies are decided. Board Meetings are the Wyrms's version of Moots, held in a mockery of human business. Moot and Board Meeting cards represent the issues called at these meetings. Collectively they are known as Juntas and largely follow the same rules.

- Playable by: Characters
- Timing: Any
- Can be voluntarily discarded from play: never

4.7.1 CALLING JUNTAS

- Each Junta has a minimum Renown level that must be met to call it. Only a Character with a Renown equal to or greater than that of the Junta may call it. Some Juntas have additional requirements as to who can call and/or vote in them.
- Gaia Characters can only call Moots.
- Wyrms Characters can only call Board Meetings.
- Juntas target who they say they target. If they do not specify, they may target anyone.
- Juntas cannot target creatures in the Umbra, but if passed, they will still affect the Umbra
- Juntas affect who they say they affect. If they do not specify, they affect all packs and all creatures.

4.7.2 VOTES

- Creatures can use their votes in every Junta they are eligible to vote in, and vote separately in each Junta.
- Wyrms characters are eligible to vote in all Board Meetings in a turn, but only ONE Moot. Gaia characters are eligible to vote in all Moots in a turn, but only ONE Board meeting.
- Characters have a number of votes equal to their Renown. Some card abilities can give Allies the ability to vote: they have a number of votes equal to their Renown unless the ability specifies otherwise.
- A Junta will pass if there are more votes in favor of it than against. Likewise, a Junta will fail if there are more votes against it than in favor, or if the vote is tied.

Sidebar: Moot Errata

The following Moots can not be called in a two player game:

- Skindancer
- Tribal War
- Winter Wolf

4.7.3 ORDER OF VOTING

Once all Juntas have been called, voting begins.

- The highest Renown Junta is voted on first, and further Juntas are voted on in order of descending Renown.
- Ties are decided in order of the Renown of the Character who called the Juntas (highest first).
- Further ties are decided randomly.

4.7.4 VOTING

- Creatures (including Allies if they have votes) vote on each Junta in order of Renown, from highest to lowest. All creatures of a specific renown are considered to cast their vote simultaneously.
- Each creature can either vote "yes", vote "no", or abstain. Creatures cannot change their vote once it has been cast.

Sidebar: speeding up voting

To speed up voting, you may wish to declare that all your characters vote the same way. However, this is merely a declaration of how they intend to vote. Their votes are not actually cast until they would do so in the voting order.

This means that even if you declared "all my characters vote for X", effects that force characters to vote a certain way or prevent them from voting entirely can change the way they vote up until they actually would cast their vote in the proper order.

4.7.5 VOTE MODIFIERS

- Abilities which affect a creature's vote (e.g. granting extra votes such as the discard ability of Elder Stone) must be used before or as the creature votes (you cannot affect a creature's vote after it has been cast).
- Any ability which doubles a creature's Renown for Juntas doubles the base Renown, not the Renown after any additions (or subtractions). Reminder: creature cannot have its renown doubled more than once.

4.7.6 VOTE RESOLUTION

- A Junta takes effect immediately that all creatures who can vote in it have done so. This means that if a Junta results in the death of a creature, removes its voting rights etc., it may not vote in any further Juntas this turn.
- After all immediate effects of the Junta have happened, the voting on the next Junta begins.

4.7.7 MOOTS VS. BOARD MEETINGS

Abilities which give additional votes to a Character, or change a Character's renown during Moots/Boardmeetings, apply to any Junta the character can vote in. All other abilities referring to Moots or Board Meetings work as printed (noting that Moot, Board Meeting and Junta are not interchangeable), with some exceptions found in the FAQ.

Voting for Moots and Boardmeetings occurs in the same sequence. If an ability allows a creature to cast votes in a Junta of the wrong allegiance, it must do so at the appropriate time in the voting order, or it is assumed to have abstained. For example, the Pentex Executive and Limousine can cast votes in either Moots or Boardmeetings. It is 8 Renown, thus must cast its votes when other renown 8 creatures do, unless the controller opted to abstain.

4.8 COMBAT CARDS

Combat cards are the blue-backed cards that represent the physical punishment that your pack can dole out and their tactics for doing so. If your combat deck runs out, reshuffle your combat discards which becomes your new combat deck - and then continue drawing. If there are no cards in either your combat deck or combat discard, then you must play with your current combat hand.

Definition: Combat Restricted

Each side of combat cannot play more than one of a Combat Restricted card per combat. If cancelled it still counts as played.

4.8.1 COMBAT ACTIONS

Most combat cards in a combat deck will be Combat Actions. Combat Actions are the physical exchanges of combat and largely consist of ways to damage opponents or to avoid damage.

- Combat Actions can only be played in the combat sequence without a card ability.
- Playable by: any creature in combat
- Duration: special
- Can be voluntarily discarded from play: never

If a Combat Action is played and not dodged, blocked or otherwise prevented from doing damage, it becomes a damage card on its target (damage cards are placed under their target so the bottom of the damage card is showing). A Combat Action played but that does not deal damage is discarded. See Combat for more details

4.8.2 COMBAT EVENTS

Combat Events are special tactics that can be played in combat.

- Playable by: Characters and Allies while your pack is in combat
- Duration: Instant or Ongoing
- Can voluntarily be discarded from play: never
- Special: all Combat Events are Combat Restricted (see above).
- Combat events follow standard timing rules.
- Combat Events stay in play until their effects are over (e.g. Frenzy stays in play until the frenzy ends, while Taking the Death Blow is discarded immediately).

CHAPTER 5: RULES FOR THE UMBRA

The rules for interaction between creatures in the physical world, those in the Umbra and those in both is quite complex. However creatures in the Umbra can freely interact with each other as they would if they were all in the physical world.

- Any time a creature crosses from the physical world to the Umbra (or back), they are Stepping Sideways.
- Creatures can only cross into or out of the Umbra using a card ability or, for Characters, a Caern. Some Characters cannot step sideways (see Creature class) which prevents all Caern or other means of doing so.
- Actions, Gifts, Past Lives, Quests, Rites, Combat Actions and the special abilities on Equipment and Creatures may not target creatures on the other side of the Gauntlet, and have no effect on creatures the other side of the Gauntlet.
- Events, including totems, affect both sides of the Gauntlet. Caerns and Territories are considered to be on both sides of the Gauntlet.
- Creatures only in the Umbra may not be targeted by Juntas, nor call or vote in them. Creatures in both worlds can call, vote in and be targeted by Juntas as normal. Juntas which do not target a specific creature work across the Gauntlet.
- Alpha actions are determined across the Gauntlet, and abilities which interrupt the order of Alpha actions work across the Gauntlet.

Cards played by creatures are considered to be on the same side of the Gauntlet as their target, unless they have no target (or the target exists on both sides of the Gauntlet) in which case such cards exist on whichever side(s) of the Gauntlet the creature that played the card was.

5.1 SPIRITS

Spirits are considered to be both in the physical world and the Umbra. If an ability makes a Spirit step sideways, typically because of Umbral Escape, or it is forced out of one world or other, it moves fully into the Umbra (or physical world if appropriate); at the beginning of the next turn it returns to both worlds.

5.2 UMBRAL COMBAT

Creatures can only declare attacks against creatures they can interact with. Usually, this means that creatures in the Umbra can only target things in the Umbra, and creatures in the physical world can only target things in the physical world. Creatures may not step in to replace another creature in combat if the creature stepping in cannot interact with both the replaced creature and the attacker.
